

Majors and Fields

Initial Version March 2004, rev 16 August 31, 2007

The Georgia educator certification assessment program is the Georgia Assessment for the Certification of Educators™ (GACE™). Applicants who have never held a certificate must meet the basic skills requirement and must pass a content assessment to be certified. All applicants for certification whose required tests were taken after March 5, 2007, must pass the GACE. If educators completed a testing requirement using the Praxis prior to that date, it will be accepted for certification. However, completing the basic skills requirement using Praxis I prior to March 5 does not allow a candidate to take Praxis II after March 5, 2007. The Basic Skills and content requirements are separate requirements. The exception to this is that those who are seeking certification in Speech and Language Pathology may continue to take the required Praxis content test which is also the ASHA required test.

There is no broad field social science certification for grades 6-12. The GACE program has tests for five different content areas within the social science area. These include History, Political Science, Geography, Economics, and Behavioral Science. The GACE Social Science for middle grades is a single test for all areas, but is applicable to grades 4-8 only.

The Professional Pedagogy GACE (171 and 172) is for candidates who are using the test based (1-year supervised practicum) alternative preparation option for teaching fields and may be used only where a content assessment is also required for that field. It is not required for those who complete an approved traditional educator preparation program.
